and the visit from the President and a portion of his Cabinet, besides a number of other distinguished persons, had the effect of attracting an unusually large crowd of people to this place to-day. The rainy and disagreeable weather of yesterday changed, nd was everything that could be desired either for a display by land or water.

At early dawn the inhabitants were tive in making every preparation for the events of the day. The various steamers running from Washington, Baltimore, and Norfolk each discharged a cargo of human freight, who came hither to witness the ceremonies. Among the first persons on the warf to greet the new arrivals was Major-General Hancock, whose manly form and handsome face made him at once conspicuous. A large number of young la dies, accompanied by chaperones, arrived to participate in the ball to be given by the proprietor of the Hygeia Hotel to-morro

About half-past 12 o'clock the Taliapoo conveying the presidential party, hove in sight, and half an hour later passed the fort and sailed around the fleet at anchor. A national salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the fort and each of the vessels. The party entered carriages in waiting, as fo lows: President, Secretaries Lincoln and Chandler, General Getty, General Hancock Senator Voorhees, Assistant-Postmaster General Hatton, Adjutant-General Drum Commodore Walker, Representatives His cock, McCook, Harris, Steele, and Dezen dorf. Attorney-General Brewster, Don Cameron, and several others preferred to visit vessels of the fleet. The line of march was to and around the fort, halting at the ttors alighted from their carriages, while the troops formed line for review on the parade-grounds, where the President an

The President advanced to the front and raised his hat, while the band played "Hail to the Chief" and the troops presented arms. He then rejoined his friends, and the troops went through various military evolutions in a creditable manner. They

many having to scramble up the stone wal assisted by a friend, Secretary Lincoln made several unsuccessful attempts to scale the wall, and finally your correspondent, taking in the situation at a glance, went to his assistance. Reaching out his strong right hand he caught hold of the younges Cabinet officer and gave him a "yank" which landed him on top of the ramparts, from which he had an unobstructed view of the firing. While all this was going on the President appeared to be deeply in-terested in the target-firing, but in fact he was flirting with a handsome brunette, the belle of the occasion. Think of the President actually firting! After eyeing his Excellency for some time this charming girl spoke to General Getty, who was conversing with the President with ing his Excellency for some time this charming girl spoke to General Getty, who was conversing with the President and General Hancock. Of course an introduction followed. In a few moments the tion followed. In a few moments the virtue of the pound has a few moments the vound lady and the President were chattheir followers cannot go about knocking stock market?" ting together quite friendly. Thus it con-tinued for several minutes, until the young lady's parents said they were going back to the hotel, and were waiting for her. After lingering several minutes longer she said farewell, and started down the hill, look-ing back as she went. The President followed her with his eyes, and when she was some distance she smiled and bowed, which the President immediately recognized and returned by lifting his hat, as much as to say, "Tah, tah!" The young lady returned to the hotel, and for the balance of the evening could talk of nothing else but the pleasant little chat she had with the President. About half-past 5 o'clock

THE NAVAL REVIEW FRIDAY.

FORTRESS MONROE, VA., April 28.—The torpedo ram Alarm, having on board Admiral Porter and his family, arrived here this morning in a disabled condition. About daybreak a vessel was sighted out in the tear achieve signals of distress. The the bay making signals of distress. The Yantic was ordered to go to her assistance, and it proved to be the Alarm, with her steering apparatus out of order. She could go straight ahead, but could neither turn to the right or left. The Yantic drew alongside and towed her in port. It will be remembered the Alarm left Washington n Wednesday morning.

The day has been very quiet ashore, but out among the fleet it has been very lively. The President has spent the greater part of the day officially visiting the various ships. Upon his arrival and departure from each a salute was fired, and the sailors sight, and half an hour later passed the passed the and sailed around the fleet at anchor. In summing up the evidence the Court said: "I must find that a severe assault was made, in which the complainant was knocked senseless and had his eye blackened and his law broken. The numishment saidthe Sphire."

A Fight for Life.

IOW AN ADIRONDACK MAN BATTLED WITH AND OVERCAME A FELOCIOUS BEAR. [From the Troy Times.]

E. R. Derby, of Saranac Lake, was the hero of a very exciting exploit Friday afternoon. While driving from the Prospect House to Bloomingdale, in passing through the woods he heard cries for help proceeding to the proceeding the state. proceeding from a ravine a few rods dis-tant from the road. Springing from his carriage, and running hastily to the edge of the ravine, Mr. Derby saw an infuriated bear ranging around the trunk of a small maple, eagerly trying to dislodge Gardner Maloney, a well-known Saranac guide, who had taken refuge in the branches of the tree. With genuine heroism Mr. Derby drew his revolver, a Smith & Wesson seven-shooter, forty-four calibre, and rushed to the rescue. Skilled in woodcraft, he was enabled to creep unobserved by the hear to within a short range, when he opened fire upon the brute. The first fire took effect in the shoulder, and was quickly followed by a second that lodged in the bear's head.

The only effect of these was to distract the attention and increase the fury of the bear, who abandoned the siege of Maloney and directed his attention to Mr. Derby, He charged furiously upon that gentleman, who coolly discharged two more shots with wonderful precision at the head of the approaching brute, and turning, beat a hasty retreat in the direction of the road. The speed told rapidly upon Mr. Derby, who turns the scales at 230 pounds. Not a moment was to be lost. The quick eye of Mr. Derby discovered a tree near by. Springing into its lower branches, he reached a point of safety half dead from exhaustion. The bear, bleeding profusely from many wounds, was undaunted and aggressive, and did not leave his enemy long to arrange a new campaign, but began the ascent of the tree. Mr. Derby drew a sheath-knife, and with that in his teeth prepared for a desperate encounter. Dis-charging the three remaining shots of bis revolver at the head of the bear, he seized the knife, and, holding by a limb with his oft hand, struck desperately at the fore feet of the climber, nearly severing one claw and eutting enormous gashes in the animal's Exciting Circus Accidents. IADAME LEONE THROWN FROM HER MARE AND A KEEPER INJURED BY A SAVAGE MONKEY. Two exciting accidents occurred at Barnum's circus during the performance yes terday afternoon. During the burdle-race while men and women riders were flying round one of the rings on fleet and spirited horses, Madame Marie Leone, who was foremost among the riders, and scated on the back of Gypsy, an imported mare, reached one of the burdles, and, as usual, gave the animal a cut to make her jump. The mare's fore feet were caught by the hurdle, and, with her rider, she went crushing to the cuth. A crowd rushed to the scene, but the circus-men and police put them back, while Madame Leone was borne to the dressing-room, followed by several physicians from the audience. Just before the performance closed she made her appearance upon her harse and made the circuit of the ring, amidst vociferous applance. Last night she appeared as usual, the only indication of the ring and the company of the ring.
